MADAME ADAM

"My Literary Life" by Madame Adam (Juliette Lamber).

THE author of "My Literary Life," just published by D. Appleton and Company, New York, is the most brilliant literary woman Paris has known since the time of Madame de Staël. She gives graphic pictures of the literary people of France and Europe in the last half century, filled with pleasant causerie of the great men and women of France to-day.

TWO NEW ROMANCES

By

A. E. W. Mason

author of
"The Four Feathers"

THE TRUANTS

The scenes of this new novel which has aroused so much attention as a serial in Harper's Weekly are placed in London, and are transferred from there to Africa, Monte Carlo, and France. It is Mr. Mason's first novel since "The Four Feathers." Dealing chiefly with London life, and written in the bright, exhilarating style characteristic of this novelist's work, it makes an adventurous romance of intense and moving interest. It is brilliantly written, with as close a study of womanly character as that by Mrs. Humphry Ward in "Lady Rose's Daughter."

Justin Huntly McCarthy

author of
"If I Were King."

THE LADY OF LOYALTY HOUSE

A sparkling romance of Puritan and Cavalier days at the outbreak of the great Civil War in England, 1642. The plot hinges upon the capture of a young officer of the Parliamentary forces at Harby Hall, where the fair Lady Brilliana Harby boldly flies the King's flag. Love makes its way through all barriers of faction and strife, as the story reveals. The incidental characters are novel and amusing, and give telling effect to a series of cleverly contrived and brilliant episodes. The story will find a welcome at the hands of every lover of romance.

A New Novel
By MEREDITH NICHOLSON
Author of "The Main Chance"

Zelda Danneron

In his new story Mr. Nicholson again holds the mirror up to human nature as found in the Middle West, and the reflection flashed back upon the reader is startlingly and attractively true.

His heroine is a young girl full of life to her finger-tips—a mixture of pride, wilfulness, courage and sweetness. To her from out the dead past comes a message that forces her fine nature to its utmost tension.

SEPTEMBER 23d, 1904, was the 35th anniversary of Black Friday; and the previous Tuesday was the 35th anniversary of panic day of 1869, a day of many interesting associations for those in Wall Street who remember the gold corner.

By strange coincidence The Bobbs-Merrill Company sent out on the 23rd the first set of advance sheets of "Black Friday," Mr. Frederic S. Isham's new novel. As has already been announced, and as indicated by the title, the book concerns the attempt by several well-known financiers in the fall of '69, to corner the gold supply.

Among the celebrated characters that appear in the book are Jim Fisk, Jay Gould, and General Grant, and others who took part in the episode.

The New York Sun of September 23 prints an interesting anecdote by Henry Clews, an eye witness of the attempt to lynch Fisk on "Black Friday:"

"I witnessed the escape of Fisk from the mob that gathered in Broad Street at the entrance to the old Matthews Building, all ready with a rope to lynch this arch-manipulator. The Matthews Building stood on the site now occupied by the Mills Building. Through another building in the rear there was a means of exit into Wall Street. The Mills Building of the present day, occupying also the site of this other building to the rear, has a minor entrance in Wall Street, corresponding to the avenue by which Fisk hoped to escape from the lynchers awaiting him in Broad Street. A boy from Fisk's office, unaware that the besieged had planned to make their disappearance through Wall Street, appeared in Broad Street and told the mob that Fisk was escaping by the rear way, intending by this subterfuge to clear the front avenue for flight. The mob reached the Wall Street exit just in time. A carriage was there and Fisk had reached the head of the stairway leading to the sidewalk. Hesitating but an instant, Fisk, a man of great bulk, leaped from the top of the steps into the middle of the mob, scattering men like tenpins, reached the carriage and was whisked away through William Street."

DOCTOR LUKE
of The LABRADOR

By NORMAN DUNCAN

"The Best Advertised of all Writers of Fiction"

New York Times Saturday Review says: "At the present moment Norman Duncan is the best advertised of all writers of fiction. Even Joseph Conrad takes second place. Frank Bullen ranks Duncan, with Conrad and Kipling as a writer of sea tales. Dr. Robertson Nicoll calls him 'an English Pierre Loti,' and 'a mystic of the unfathomable depths.' His novel, like his short stories, deals with the Newfoundland and Labrador coasts. The sample shows it to be a promising and well-told tale of salt water, high winds, rocky shores, and rugged dialect. But too much advance praise may hurt even a good writer."

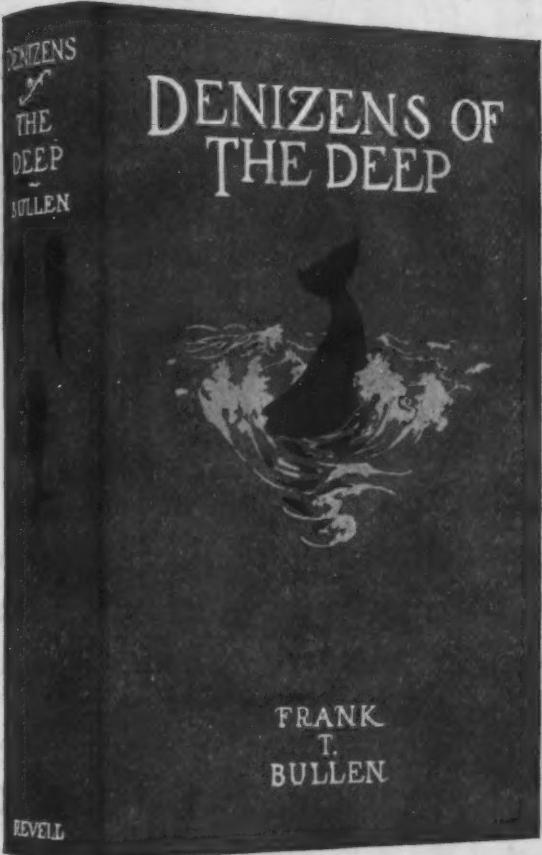

NORMAN DUNCAN'S FIRST NOVEL. READY IN TEN DAYS. $1.50

ILLUSTRATIONS BY CHARLES
LIVINGSTON BULL AND OTHERS

What Thompson Seton has done for land animals, this does for those of the sea. It seems to usher one into an utterly new world. Nothing could be more charming than the way Mr. Bullen enables the chief individuals described, such as the Sperm Whale, the Albacore, the Flying-fish, the Frigate bird and others, to tell their own story. He even makes one feel a sympathy for the trials of a Man-eating Shark. His vivid and glowing pictures of the wonderful life of the deep sea possess a decidedly human and life-like quality.

LAURA LATHROP, C. S. D., says: "She shows plainly that her desire in writing the story was to convince its readers that Christian Science can heal the sick and convert the sinner."

A GREAT NOVEL WITH A GREAT PURPOSE

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE IS A GREAT REALITY and is making more progress than any other denomination. We have recently published a new book by

MRS. GEORGIE SHELDON
(MRS. GEORGE SHELDON DOWNS)

"KATHERINE'S SHEAVES"

In which the brilliant author has used her great talents to point out the real scientific and practical results achieved by Christian Science.

The character of this book justifies the action. It is a remarkable work—perhaps the most remarkable in fiction.

Judged as a story, pure and simple, "Katherine's Sheaves" is altogether delightful. But it is more than a charming piece of fiction; it is one of the strongest books ever written in behalf of Christian Science. Not since the publication of Mrs. Humphry Ward's great purpose-novel, "Robert Elsmere," in 1888, has so powerful a work been presented to the public.

Since publishing "Katherine's Sheaves" we have received about one thousand letters from "Christian Science Readers" and the general public, commanding, in the highest terms, Mrs. Sheldon's book. We publish below some of these letters. From their general tenor we are convinced that the widest publicity should be given to this book, for the reason that nothing but good can result from reading it.

THE FEDERAL BOOK CO.

1 W. 69TH ST., N. Y., Sept. 2, 1904.

DEAR SIRS: I received the book you sent me. Thanks. I have read it, but will lend this copy to patients who cannot afford to buy it. I have very much enjoyed reading "Katherine's Sheaves" by Mrs. Georgie Sheldon, and have advised many of my patients to read it. I think it very helpful to one who is just becoming interested in Christian Science. Many people will read a story in which its principle is set forth, who have positively refused to read the text book of "Christian Science," "Science and Health," with key to the scriptures, by Mary Baker G. Eddy. I am also pleased that Mrs. Sheldon has so honestly given credit, where credit is due, to this book and its author. She shows plainly that her desire in writing the story was to convince its readers that "Christian Science" can heal the sick and convert the sinner. I feel deeply grateful to her for the work she has done.

LAURA LATHROP, C. S. D.

THE FEDERAL BOOK CO., J. M. RUSTON, Mgr.

I take great pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of Mrs. Sheldon's book, "Katherine's Sheaves." Have read the work all through with deep interest and profit. No better book could possibly be placed in the hands of young girls. Mrs. Sheldon has presented in Katherine a beautifully-rounded character, and an excellent type of a young Christian Scientist. Her moral courage and consistency are an excellent object lesson. The book will do good. I thank you for sending it to me and I heartily endorse it. Sincerely yours,

ELLEN BROWN LINSCOTT, C. S. D.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "The Son of Royal Langbrith," by William Dean Howells, dealing with the situation of a woman who conceals from her son the faults and shortcomings of his dead father; "The Lady of Loyalty House," a tale of the Civil War in England, by Justin Huntly McCarthy; "The Truants," a story of London life, by A. E. W. Mason; also, "The Expert Maid Servant," by Christine Terhune Herrick, daughter of Marion Harland, who plans her book chiefly for housekeepers of means, for whom the problems of service are the most difficult.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have just ready a new book by Brand Whitlock, author of "The 13th District" and "Her Infinite Variety." Mr. Whitlock takes what may be classed two "average" people, in an average country town, and without disturbing reality, surrounds them with a glamour of romance. In doing this he manages somehow to reveal to the reader his own romantic heart. They have also just ready "The Law of the Land," by Emerson Hough, author of "The Mississippi Bubble," who now writes a story of the race question in the South; and "Out to Old Aunt Mary's," that charming poem by James Whitcomb Riley, for which Howard Chandler Christy has again provided sympathetic illustrations.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. bring out this week "The Secret of Popularity," a new book by Emily Holt, author of the "Encyclopædia of Etiquette," etc.; also, "The Complete Motorist," an authoritative work on automobiling, by A. B. Filson Young, both of which have already been fully described by us. They will publish on the 20th inst., Rider Haggard's new book, "The Brethren," a story of the Crusades, in which a young English girl related to Saladin is captured by his emissaries, and subsequently rescued by two noble English twin knights; a book of child life, entitled "Andrea, the Tribulations of a Child," by the Danish authoress, Karin Michaelis, the translation being by John Nilsen Laurvik; also, "Little Citizens," a collection of the stories of school life east of the Bowery, in New York City, by Myra Kelly, which have been appearing in McClure's the last year or so.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. publish this week "Sweet Peggy," a light romance by Linnie Sarah Harris; a new edition of "The Old Masters and Their Pictures," by Sarah Tytler, with twenty full-page illustrations from famous paintings; four new books for young people—"Irma and Nap," a story of school and home life for younger girls, by Helen Leah Reed, author of "The Brenda" books; "In the Miz," seven fanciful and humorous stories, by Grace E. Ward, with eight full-page pictures in color, and humorous illustrations in the text, by Clara E. Atwood; "Little Almond Blossoms," real stories of Chinese boys and girls, by Jessie Juliet Knox, with fifteen full-page illustrations from photographs; "The Nursery Fire," short stories for young children, by Rosalind Richards, daughter of Laura E. Richards, illustrated by Clara E. Atwood; also, two books of poetry—"The Place of My Desire, and Other Poems," by Edith Colby Banfield, niece of Helen Hunt Jackson, and "Lullaby Castle, and Other Poems," by Blanche Mary Channing.

The motto of this book discloses its purpose: "Figures never lie unless liars make figures." Mr. Atkinson has made a complete analysis of the cost of a protective tariff, so-called, and upon whom the burden falls; the cost of war and warfare; the cost of militarism and imperialism; and other economic problems which are now before the country. All the facts and figures are derived from the national accounts and have been justified and proved.

"The Wampum Library of American literature" has been planned to include a series of uniform volumes, each of which shall deal with the development of a single literary species, tracing the evolution of this definite form here in the United States, and presenting in chronological sequence typical examples chosen from the writings of American authors. The editors of the several volumes provide critical introductions, in which they outline the history of the form as it has been evolved in the literature of the world. Each volume is complete in itself. The authors from whom selections are taken all were born in the first half of the 19th century.

This work is devoted to two of the most essential elements in practice, viz.: Time and notice: the time prescribed when or within which the statute requires a thing to be done; and, when notice is requisite, how and when it shall be given. The many changes in our laws since the Constitution of 1874 was adopted challenge the closest scrutiny and comparison—by the practitioner. It is the purpose of this work to afford a ready reference to the statutes providing for time or notice—and the decisions thereon.

The author has aimed to select from the extensive field of the law those fundamental principles, a knowledge of which the business man will most frequently find of value to him, and which the teacher of commercial law will regard most useful to his classes. It is not the purpose of this volume to make lawyers of its readers, but to teach them to discover the ways that lead from litigation, and to enable them to conduct their business dealings with an intelligent idea of their legal rights and limitations. The tabulations at the end of the volume give in a general way the statutes of the different states on several important topics.

Uncontrollable temper, increasing idealism, love of pleasure, consideration of worldly status, claims of children, sympathetic friendships, etc., etc., are a few of the problems that are finally solved into a good story.

Herrick, Rob. The common lot. N. Y., Macmillan, 1904. [S.] c. 5+426 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A young architect, who has had a thorough training in Paris, comes to Chicago to begin his career. With high ideals and an artistic temperament, he comes to grief in his desire to make money quickly. His expenses are increased by marriage with a poor girl, while he feels he must live expensively to make friends and obtain orders. The struggle is too much for him and he succumbs to temptation in the shape of a corrupt contractor. He allows his plans to be tampered with, finally witnessing the destruction of one of his "fire proof" buildings, in which a number of people meet their death. The shock revives his conscience, and with his wife's help and influence, he goes back to first principles, begins again at the foot of the ladder, sharing the common lot, growing into a nobler and far different man.

Howells, W.: Dean. The son of Royal Langbrith: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1904. [O.] c. '03. 3+269 p. O. cl., $2.

The mid New-England latitude of Saxsmills is the stage. The son of Royal Langbrith, his mother, now wooed by the country doctor after nineteen years of widowhood, an opium eater and his loyal daughter are the leading characters. The son has grown up thinking his father a hero and benefactor and the mother knows he will never pardon a second marriage on her part. The doctor's courtship betrays the long hidden secrets of the father's life, and day by day the son learns that he has been worshipping a self-constructed idol. The contrast of the habits of the secluded little village and the ideals brought into it by modern college boys and journalists is skilfully described.

Le Queux, W: The closed book; concerning the secret of the Borgias. N. Y., Smart Set Publishing Co., [1904.] c. 2+350 p. D. cl., $1.50.

"The closed book" is the ancient record of one Godfrey Lovel, an English mercenary in the service of Lucrezia Borgia. This old manuscript, besides vindicating the lady of the Borgias at the expense of her brother and father, reveals the English hiding place of the lost Borgia jewels and of the famous Borgia poison, whose secret was lost to the world after the Borgias' deaths, but which during their lives enabled the family to attain almost supreme power. The book is really a vindication of the much abused Lucrezia Borgia, who, it seems, was simply the victim of circumstances.

The early chapters show Tony Stretton and his young wife chafing at the tyranny of miserly old Sir John Stretton, who coops them up in his big house in London and allows them neither liberty nor money. At last Tony resolves to throw off the yoke and in a new land to make a future for himself and his wife. Failure awaits him in his first attempts, until in despair he enlists in the Foreign Legion in Algeria where there is much fighting and honor. Meanwhile Millie, lonely and unhappy, falls under the influence of an adventurer and is only saved from worse by the return of her husband. Interest also centers in the story of Pamela Mardale, a society girl haunted by a mystery, and in several minor but extremely well-known characters.

George Washington in his old age, looking back on a life full of incident and many activities, knowing death cannot be far off, begins to write the story of his youth with the intention of eventually making it a complete autobiography. This record traces his life from childhood until the close of the Braddock campaign in 1755. Dr. Mitchell has used Washington's own words as much as possible and reproduced old letters and documents; yet it is impossible to say with certainty what is fact and what is fiction, so cleverly has the story been welded into a connected personal narrative. Has been issued serially in the Century during this year.

Nesbit, E. [Mrs. Hubert Bland.] The phoenix and the carpet; il. by H. R. Millar. N. Y., Macmillan, 1904. [O.] c. 7+257 p. D. cl., +$1.50.

A merry, happy party of young people, left alone in a London nursery on a rainy Fifth of November (Guy Fawkes' day), ruin the carpet with their fireworks. Mother buys a new one in a little shop on the Kentish Town Road, which when opened in the nursery is found to contain an egg, very yellow and shiny. By accident, one day, the egg falls into the grate fire, and bursting open, lets out a flame-colored bird. This bird announces himself as the Phoenix and tells the children the new carpet is a magic carpet, which will respond to all their wishes. From here begin a series of adventures in various parts of the world.

"In order that a proper knowledge of the theory and operation of apparatus may be had, the first part of the book is devoted to elucidating the general laws of magnetism and alternating currents as applied to alternating work. The second part deals directly with modern alternating apparatus, covering in a general way the designing principles and the principles of operation, and in detail the methods of test that have been found to be the best."—Preface.

A bright up-to-date story of modern life for girls. Ruth Campbell, the young heroine, returns to New York after eight years spent in a western boarding-school. Her return to her uncle's home reveals the fact that she must depend upon herself for future support. The story shows how resourceful this young girl is, and pictures the many difficulties which she experiences in starting out in her life's work.

Rickert, Edith. The reaper. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1904. [O.] c. 5+341 p. D. cl., +$1.50.

Terval was a bold, ambitious native of the Shetland Isles who for love of his mother and to protect her from her besetting sin sacrificed his dreams of study and influence and remained among the poor fishermen of the wild North Sea. There are fine character studies of strong and weak women and descriptions of the habits and employments of the storm-bound islands. After living a life of blessing in his surroundings the reaper finally secures a harvest of happiness in other fields than his youthful ambition had made tempting. The author is an Ohio girl who has for some years made her home in England. She has lived among the people she describes.

Admiral Schley says in his preface "that this service of forty-five years under the flag of the United States, has included, in times of peace, all quarters of the globe. It has imposed responsibilities and afforded experiences that do not usually come to naval men, and at the same time it has given opportunities to observe other civilizations and to visit other countries. In time of war it has included the Civil War, the storming of the Korean fortifications on Kang Hoa Island and participation in the war with Spain that ended in the total destruction of the Spanish fleet and the capture of Admiral Cervera, his officers and men, on July 3, 1898, off Santiago de Cuba."

Fashionable, prosperous American society drifts from Naugatuck, Conn., to New York and other winter resorts, while Mrs. Bravur, a happily married matron lays plans for gaining husbands for her dearest friends. She has large house parties, and polo, hunting, shooting, boating, "motoring" and other pastimes offer opportunities for delightful tête-à-têtes. A country horse show plays an important part. Presentday life of well-mannered, well-to-do people, amid beautiful American summer scenes is described with animation.

Sedgwick, Anne Douglas. Paths of judgment. N. Y., Century Co., 1904. [O.] c. 3+346 p. D. cl., +$1.50.

Some of the best people of rural England furnish the subjects for a clever character study. A strong and a weak man love a naive and unconventional girl with an impossible father. A woman of the world, devoted to altruistic schemes, loves the weak man. He marries the ingénue and unending complications ensue during which the strong man has much opportunity to show unselfish manliness. The conversations are clever and show the trend of modern thought on religious and social questions.

In London, in 1891, Jewdwine, an up-to-date journalist, had discovered "the divine fire" in "S.K.R." who had contributed a poem to his paper. Samuel Keith Richman worked in his father's second-hand book-store. He was uncultivated and dropped his "h's." He was a complex nature and met the world as second-hand bookseller, as student and recluse, as junior journalist, as young man about town, as a boarder in a shabby boarding house, as a genius, and as a man of dissipated habits. The study of his character is ingenious and the criticisms of journalism and modern literature are bold and fearless. Love plays a minor part.

During Thackeray's first visit to the United States, in 1852, Mr. George Baxter of New York was presented to him, and because the great novelist was lonely and homesick and dissatisfied with lecturing, and because the welcome at the "Brown House" on Second Avenue was sincere and informal and the members of the Baxter family charming and interesting friendship was formed, destined to last until Thackeray's death. These letters, written during 1852-'54, while he was travelling in America and after his return to England, show the genial, lovable, whimsical side of his character, and give glimpses of his relation to his family as well as to his friends which are altogether delightful.

A little waif of the London slums dies in a children's hospital and enters the "gray world." He is surrounded by mists and restlessness and ghosts and he makes his escape and re-enters this world as the only son of a middle-class London family. The lad poses among his commonplace surroundings as "silly" and "queer." He has a poetic soul and after many trials meets a kindred nature and they live a life apart, finding in themselves the content and hope that make life worth living both here and hereafter.

"The present study of the coal combinations in Germany was made by the writer during a recent sojourn in that country (1902-3). The immediate incentive was the desire to observe more closely the particular development of the world-wide movement of combination. The desire was stimulated by the fact that an extensive investigation of the subject was initiated at that time by the Imperial Government. . . . The writer has had the advantage of making two visits to Westphalia and another to Luxembourg (the principal coal and iron districts), and has also had the opportunity of meeting and talking with some of the leaders in these industries."—Preface.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

WILLIAMS & NORGATE, 14 Henrietta Street, London, have published the "English Theologian's Model Library of Foreign Theological Literature," compiled with the assistance of a number of leading English theologians. None but standard works have been included, and the collection as a whole will be a safe guide to the student and clergyman in the study of the great theological writers of the past and present. (94 p. 16°.)

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 15, 1904.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

BREAKING NEW GROUND.*

THE breaking of new ground may be said to be the very crux of the commercial traveller's profession, and is without doubt the greatest task he can undertake. Indeed, a man who can successfully create a new field must, of necessity, have selling powers of a high order, and should be fit for anything. When one realizes the difficulty of keeping a connection already formed, where the salesman is well known and the firm he represents is thoroughly established, it will be apparent that the man who has neither of these advantages must have stupendous difficulties to overcome. It takes years of hard work to form a sound connection, but some one must be the first to introduce the goods.

Such a task is not likely to fall to the lot of a representative of any publishing house, new or old; yet in the line of his routine work every traveller is expected to turn aside to work up new trade in the districts that he visits regularly, or that may have sprung up in neighborhoods bordering on his route. A glance at the changes that take place in the book trade during any one year must convince even the most superficial observer of the importance of watching the whole field—that which is growing as well as that already established. During the year 1903 there were reported the opening of upwards of seventy new book stores throughout the country; fifty-six booksellers sold out or went into bankruptcy, and one hundred and fifty book stores were taken over by new proprietors. With the fifty odd book stores that were closed out for one reason or another, the traveller, of course, need not concern himself; but he is confronted with the problem of making friends and patrons of more than two hundred new booksellers, nearly every one of whom may be an entire stranger to him. In some respects, this is a most pleasant and interesting task, and, if the traveller is alive to his opportunities, it may also prove a profitable one.

It seems desirable that on each trip a certain time allowance should be made to enable the traveller to work up new trade along his regular route. A first or even a second call may prove fruitless; but if the field is systematically and conscientiously followed up results are certain to follow. Indeed, it is often surprising what a high proportion of success results from nursing prospects. Needless to say, that anything that shows even the smallest percentage of a prospect should be followed up promptly and resolutely, otherwise the effect may die away, and the work will have to be gone over again.

The guiding principle in breaking new ground is to see every man who is likely to buy, and, in justice to his house and to himself, the traveller should endeavor to do this faithfully. The man he may miss may probably be the one who would have bought, and this the traveller cannot know unless he calls upon him. In breaking new ground, therefore, two main features should be ever present to the traveller—to get an audience with every man who handles his line of goods, and to economize his time to the full. Otherwise he cannot leave the territory conscientiously feeling that he has taken everything possible off the ground.

THE convention of the stationers last week at Chicago is an event of which the twin brethren of the booktrade have good reason to be proud. Not only was the convention a strong and successful one in point of numbers, but the spirit of unanimity and the desire to work promptly and in harmony, was most encouraging. Indeed, this convention should be an example to the booktrade of the possibility of wholesaler and retailer working together for their mutual protection as a unit. The organization of the booktrade will never be quite effective until a fusion can be brought about of the two branches now working independently. The American Publishers' Association and the American Booksellers' Association along their own individual lines are unquestionably doing good work; but that work might be done more satisfactorily and more effectively if all the complex difficulties that beset the booktrade could be settled by the consensus of opinion of both branches of the trade in one organization. The present methods are cumbersome, circumlocutional and, we regret to add, not always satisfactory.

* Continuation of the series of "The Profession of Bookselling." A list of authorities quoted will be given on conclusion.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF STATIONERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

THE first national convention of stationers and manufacturers met at Steinway Hall, Chicago, on October 3, 1904, upwards of one hundred delegates being present. F. B. Gibbs, president of the Chicago Stationers' Association, called the meeting to order shortly after eight o'clock in the morning, and addressed the convention, explaining the purpose of the meeting. When the convention was formally opened, Mr. Gibbs was unanimously elected permanent chairman of the convention, and William Jennings Kennedy, of St. Louis, permanent secretary.

On motion, the following committees were appointed:

Credentials.—William Rodiger, Chicago, chairman; Charles T. Backus, Detroit; Robert D. Patterson, St. Louis; Charles A. Stevens, Chicago, and L. G. Wetmore, Rochester.

Charter and By-Laws.—Henry C. Bainbridge, New York, chairman; J. B. Fay, Chicago; W. H. Redington, Chicago; Wyatt Schallcross, St. Louis, and D. S. Sperry, St. Paul.

At the second day's session Chairman Bainbridge, of the committee on Charter and By-Laws, read the revised by-laws, and a draft of the charter incorporating the society under the laws of Illinois, and moved the adoption of the report. It was seconded and unanimously carried, with the amendment fixing the yearly dues at five dollars, instead of at ten dollars, as originally determined.

It was also voted that the records of the first meeting be made permanent.

The election of officers resulted in the following choice:

F. B. Gibbs, of Chicago, president.

H. C. Bainbridge, of New York, first vice-president.

John A. Schlener, of Minneapolis, second vice-president.

William Jennings Kennedy, of St. Louis, third vice-president.

Charles A. Stevens, of Chicago, secretary.

Abner K. Pratt, of Boston, treasurer.

John B. Fay, of Chicago, auditor.

The following were elected members of the Board of Control: M. D. Rider, Chicago; Samuel Ward, Boston; D. S. Sperry, St. Paul, Minn.; Wyatt Shallcross, St. Louis; Lee Mason, Jr., Pittsburg; Thomas J. Moran, New Orleans; Robert Ainsly, New York; W. P. Carpenter, Jr., Cincinnati; C. E. Moyer, Omaha, and H. B. Burrows, Cleveland. The following were elected to represent the various industries: F. V. Towne, of the National Blank Book Company; James Logan, of the U. S. Envelope Company; W. H. Hopkins, of the Globe-Wernicke Company; R. B. Carter, Boston; Frank B. Weeks, New York; John A. Walker, Jersey City, N. J.; N. G. Heise, Philadelphia; R. G. Craig, St. Louis; and R. B. Wilson and H. B. Brooks.

Mr. C. H. Clough, of Pittsburg, who took an active part in the preliminary work of organizing a national association, was absent owing to ill health. It was the intention of the convention to elect Mr. Clough an officer of the association, but at his earnest request, Mr. Lee Mason, Jr., was elected in his place. Before adjourning, the following resolution was presented and adopted:

WHEREAS, Mr. C. H. Clough, president of the Pittsburg Association, is suffering from an accident and is injured to such an extent as to prevent him from participating in this meeting which he had so much at heart; be it Resolved, That the secretary of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers be instructed to write him a letter of sympathy and good will.

The dinner given at the Grand Pacific Hotel on the evening of October 5, was an entire success. About 250 members and their friends were present in the elaborately decorated dining-room. F. B. Gibbs presided in a most happy manner. The Weber Quartet sang a number of songs and contributed much to the entertainment of the evening. Among the speakers were Henry E. Sawtell, Dr. Howard Taylor, Elias Day, John A. Walker, H. C. Bainbridge, Frederick W. Job, Amos Pettibone, Thomas J. Moran, E. Walter Giles, James T. Lacey, Charles H. Mann, John A. Schlener, Samuel Ward, George A. Olney and J. J. Hooper.

During the evening Mr. Bainbridge, on behalf of the Eastern Stationers, presented to the Chicago Stationers' Association a magnificent silver water pitcher and goblet, suitably inscribed.

A number of congratulatory telegrams were read.

The company parted at an early hour in the morning with the singing of "America." The time and place of the next meeting was left for further consideration.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF PUBLISHERS.

THE Executive Committee of the International Congress of Publishers met for the second time at Berne, Switzerland, September 15, under the presidency of Albert Brockhaus. The committee audited and passed upon the accounts for the second and third financial years, and approved the budget for the forthcoming year.

It was reported that Denmark and Sweden had joined the Berne Convention (1903 and 1904).

The steps taken with regard to piracies of copyright music in Egypt, Roumania and Greece were approved, and will be continued, as well as those aiming at the joining of the convention by the two first of the said countries and by Holland.

The committee approved of the manner in which the bureau has proceeded or will proceed to the carrying out of the resolutions relating to the following questions, which are divided into two categories:

(1) Professional schools, maintenance of the published price, national bibliographies, music trade, mechanical musical instruments, localized editions, territorial subdivision of musical copyright, interchange of documents between the different associations, innovations with regard to form or "get up," protection of educational works, and technical libraries of the publishing trade.

(2) Code of usages between authors and publishers, methodical classification of catalogues, delivery on sale or return, relations of the publishers to the press, removal of duty on books, metric system, use of the word "edition," publishers' responsibility with regard to newspaper subscriptions, institution of overplus sheets or plates, "overs" in printing, solidity of packing, responsibility in the case of the loss of manuscripts, and international informations.

A certain number of resolutions concerning these questions were considered as being set aside, temporarily or definitively; those figuring in the second category may be looked upon, with respect to publishers, as advices which, if followed, may lead to useful results.

The Bureau will apply to the postal conference at Rome in 1905 on the subject of the resolutions concerning the reforms which ought to be introduced into the international postal service.

A table of copyright laws and treaties drawn up in the different countries since 1901 up to now will be sent to the associations, as well as a list of the resolutions framed by the congress relative to that matter.

The fifth session of the congress will be held at Milan in 1906, the date being fixed upon the Wednesday following Whitsunday. T. Ricordi, of Milan, president of the Associazione Tipografico-libraria Italiana, was present at the meeting with a view to the arrangements to be made for that session. The International Commission will meet there during the session.

The Bureau will present at Milan a general report on the carrying out of the resolutions of the first four sessions.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE gave its first dinner of the season at the Aldine Association on the evening of October 12. Upwards of fifty members were present when the president, Theodore E. Schulte, welcomed the League and its friends in a brief speech. After the dinner George S. Merriam, one of the directors of G. & C. Merriam Co., gave an interesting history of Webster's Dictionary, its editors and publishers. This was followed by a most suggestive talk on "Success is Governed by Natural Law," by R. U. Conger, of the Sheldon School for Scientific Salesmanship.

The League has made arrangements for a Ladies' Night, on November 17. The entertainment committee promises an unusually good programme for that occasion.

SHAKESPEARE'S BIBLE TO BE SOLD.

ACCORDING to a special despatch to the New York Sun, a Bible which is stated to have been the property of Shakespeare, will be sold at auction shortly at Sotheby's. It is dated 1613, being an imprint of the second edition of the King James version. It contains two signatures of the poet, which are alleged to be genuine. The book was discovered near Manchester, Eng., in 1850 by a well-known collector of the name of Sharp. It was discussed twenty years ago. Experts are doubtful as to its authenticity.

THE BEST-SELLING ENGLISH BOOKS.

THE London Book Monthly reports that the following were the leaders among the books that sold best in England during September:

- God's Good Man, by Marie Corelli.
- Double Harness, by Anthony Hope.
- Capricious Caroline, by Madame Albarensi.
- John Chilcote, M. P., by Katherine Cecil Thurston.
- Love Triumphant, by L. T. Meade.
- Sabrina Warham, by Laurence Housman.
- Hearts in Exile, by John Oxenham.
- Meadowsweet and Rue, by Silas K. Hocking.
- Lindley Kays, by Barry Pain.
- Boden's Boy, by Tom Gallon.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MRS. ISABELLA L. BISHOP, the author, died on the 10th inst. at Huntington, Eng. Mrs. Bishop was born at Boroughshire Hall, Yorkshire, Eng., October 15, 1832, and was the daughter of the Rev. Edward Bird. She travelled extensively ever since she was twenty-two, visiting America, Asia and Africa. Among her published works are "The Englishwoman in America," "Six Months in the Sandwich Islands," "A Lady's Life in the Rocky Mountains," "Unbeaten Tracks in Japan," "The Golden Chersonese," "Journeys in Persia and Kurdistan," "Among the Tibetans," "The Yangtze Valley and Beyond," and "Pictures from China." She was elected the first lady Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society.

JOHN HOLLINGSHEAD, the journalist, died in London on the 10th inst. Mr. Hollingshead was born in London, September 9, 1827. In 1857 he became connected with Household Words, of which Dickens was editor. He was afterwards connected with Thackeray on The Cornhill Magazine, and with Dr. Norman McLeod on Good Words. Later he was on the staff of the London Daily News, Once a Week, Punch, and The London Review. He helped to found the Alhambra Theater, and founded the Gaiety Theater, of which he was the manager for eighteen years. His literary works include "Plain English," "Under Bow Bells," "Odd Journeys," "Underground London," "Miscellanies," "Rough Diamonds," "Footlights," "The Story of Leicester Square," "Niagara Spray," "My Lifetime," "Gaiety Chronicles" and "According to My Lights." He belonged to clubs in London, Paris, New York and Buffalo.

SIGFRIED MAUTNER, familiarly known as "Sig." for seventeen years with Hurst & Co., died at the German Hospital in New York City, on October 4, after an operation for a stomach trouble. Mr. Mautner was born in Lissa, Germany, December 23, 1873. When about fourteen years of age, in search of a position, he passed through Nassau Street, and was attracted by the sign "Boy Wanted," hanging outside the door of Hurst & Co.'s store. On applying, the elder Mr. Hurst, attracted by the bright and intelligent look of the boy, promptly hired him. Beginning as office boy, young "Sig." steadily worked his way up until he became almost the mainstay of the business. In 1896, when Mr. Ruston went over to the Lupton Company, "Sig." succeeded him as head traveller, calling on the trade in the large cities of the country. Besides his function as traveller, Mr. Mautner also assisted the firm in selecting and making their books, his judgment in this direction being of special value. Personally, Mr. Mautner was of the most charming disposition, easily making friends of even his most active rivals. Throughout the country "Sig." had friends wherever he went, who will be shocked to learn of his sudden death. His funeral was attended by a large number of travellers in the book and stationery trade, and Hurst & Co. are in daily receipt of letters speaking of "Sig.'s" manly qualities in the highest terms.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

DR. HAMILTON WRIGHT MABIE has been engaged upon an introduction to a new literary series upon individual lines which is to be announced shortly by A. S. Barnes & Co.

It is announced that Mrs. Humphry Ward's next novel will appear serially in the pages of The Century Magazine. Like "Lady Rose's Daughter," persons known in history will figure as the characters.

POULTNEY BIGELOW is at work on Volume iv. of his history of "The German Struggle for Liberty," to be published by Harper & Brothers. He will return to America this winter for the purpose of delivering a series of twenty-five lectures before the Boston University Law School, beginning just after Christmas.

PROFESSOR WALTER L. FLEMING, of West Virginia University, is preparing, for publication by The Arthur H. Clark Company, of Cleveland, a collection of documents relating to Reconstruction. Professor Fleming, in connection with an extended study of Reconstruction, has for several years been collecting contemporaneous data for that period. This collection will not only include the official documents, political platforms and speeches, thus superseding McPherson's documentary "History of Reconstruction," but will also draw on many rare private sources for original, hitherto unpublished, matter regarding the Ku Klux Klan, the White Camelia, the Union League, churches and schools during Reconstruction, the Freedmen's Bureau, etc. State laws and decisions of state courts will also be included, together with selections illustrating social and economic conditions during the period covered. Professor Fleming is still unearthing material, and has discovered many unique documents owned by private individuals. He would be glad to hear from persons having in their possession material relating to this period, and may be addressed at Morgantown, West Virginia.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Book Wants is to be the title of a new monthly magazine, to be published from 515 West 173d Street, New York, beginning with December 1. The magazine, we understand, will be devoted very largely to the advertising of books wanted and for sale, etc.

THE November number of The World's Work, which will inaugurate the fifth year of the magazine, will be an unusually significant issue. The two leading articles will be devoted to the great harvests. Isaac F. Marossen, of the staff, contributes "Harvesting the Wheat," illustrated by remarkable photographs. Mr. Marossen made an intimate investigation, travelling through the whole wheat belt. C. H. Poe's article, "The Rich Kingdom of Cotton," carefully illustrated, exploits the great Southern industry. Other notable articles in this issue will be Henry Wysham Lanier's second article on life insurance, showing how the companies invest $1,000,000 a day; Miss Shaw's summing up of American schools; Durham White Stevens' comprehensive estimate of the Emperor of Japan, and John Callan O'Laughlin's article, "German and American Workingmen."

The International Studio, which has been steadily advancing in artistic and literary value during its existence in the United States, announces a change of price, to begin October 25, from $3.50 to $5.00 a year, and 35 cents to 50 cents a copy. The magazine affords a complete survey of American art in particular, and the world's art in general, containing among its attractive features each month a number of color plates, besides numerous full-page plates in mezzotint, photogravure, collotype, lithography, etc.; criticism of current performance as well as art matters of older interest, and a comprehensive survey of art news. The important place occupied to-day by American arts and crafts in the world's art field is reflected in the attention given them in The International Studio, one-fourth of each issue being now devoted to the work and workers of the United States.

The Street Railway Journal, published by the McGraw Publishing Company, of New York, celebrates its twentieth anniversary in issuing what is probably the largest number of any periodical ever published in this country. The issue contains 534 pages, of which 180 are reading pages and eighteen others are devoted to a Digest in French and German of the leading articles in this issue and the four preceding weekly issues of the paper. This Digest in French and German is a regular feature of The Street Railway Journal, owing to its large circulation in Europe and other foreign countries, and is bound in once a month. The issue is an unusual one, aside from mere size, being notable on account of its typographical appearance and its list of contributors. The latter include many of the most prominent electric railway inventors, engineers and operating managers in this country, each of whom is an authority upon the subject discussed by him. A good idea of the amount of matter contained in the reading pages of this single issue will be derived from the statement that if it were published in the form of the usual technical book it would require a volume of over 650 closely printed pages; also from the fact that, owing to the international postal regulations which limit the weight of any single package to four pounds six ounces, this paper is bound into two volumes for transmission abroad.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

D. APPLETON & Co. announce that the much-delayed novel, "The Misfit Crown," by Francis Davidge, will be brought out on the 28th inst.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will issue this month a brief work by J. H. B. Masterson, of Birmingham, entitled "Was Jesus Christ Divine," being the condensed form of a line of argument presented in a recent course of lectures on the "Credibility of the Incarnation."

LEEDS & BIDDLE Co., Philadelphia, announce that "Bushido, the Soul of Japan," by Inazo Nitobe, is at present out of print, but will soon be reissued with the addition of several chapters now published for the first time. "Bushido" is the Japanese word for chivalry, and the title means literally "Precepts of Knighthood."

R. F. FENNO & Co. will publish on the 22d inst. "The Albert Gate Mystery," by Louis Tracy, author of "The Wings of the Morning," etc., which has been described as being a detective story so mysterious and so ingenious that our old friend "Sherlock Holmes" must bestir himself in good earnest if he is to keep his place.

BRENTANO'S have just issued a volume entitled "Semiramis and Other Plays," by Mrs. Olive Tilford Dargan, which is likely to attract wide attention. That they are among the most brilliant achievements in this line of work produced in the last fifty years is the verdict of several people interested in the drama who have examined these in manuscript.

W. H. H. MUSICK, Hartville, Mo., has written and published "Urlov, the Wanderer," a realistic story of vicissitude and adventure on sea and land. The characters are Scandinavians who wandered out to this country during the time when people thought gold could be picked up in the streets, and after many troublesome days settled in New Mexico and became successful both in business and in heart histories.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on the 20th inst. Miss Elizabeth Jordan's new book, entitled "May Iverson—Her Book," recounting the adventures of a convent school girl; "The Luxury of Children, and Some Other Luxuries," by G. S. Martin, a delightful holiday book, with illustrations, in colors, by Miss Sarah S. Stilwell, who was formerly a pupil of Howard Pyle's; also, "True Bills," a new book of fables by George Ade.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY have ready "Careers for Coming Men," by twenty-three business and literary men; "The Fortunes of a Free-Lance," by Alfred G. Lawrence; "Billy Whiskers, Jr.," by Frances Trego Montgomery, who is also author of "On a Lark to the Planets;" also, "A Picnic on a Pyramid," by Marian V. Loud, a fairy story, in which three little maidens visit Egypt, Constantinople, and the Madeira Islands, illustrated by the author with pen and ink sketches.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish shortly "Romantic Ireland," by M. F. and B. McM. Mansfield, which will have a wide and varied appeal. Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield spent nearly a year in Ireland exploring the beauties of the country, gathering many bits of quaint history and fanciful legend, and studying the story of the famous island. As a result of their pilgrimage, "Romantic Ireland" is a delightfully intimate account of the land and the people, while the sketches made by Mrs. Mansfield (Blanche McManus) are not only sympathetic, but remarkably artistic.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on the 20th inst. a work on "How to Study Shakespeare," by William H. Fleming; "How to Make Pottery," by Mary White; "Diana," by Katherine Holland Brown; "Freckles," by Gene Stratton Porter; "The Tom Boy at Work," by Jeanette L. Gilder, a sequel to the "Autobiography of a Tom Boy," published two years ago, with illustrations by Florence Scovill Shinn; also, "Nancy's Country Christmas," by Eleanor Hoyt, who again introduces the principal figure of "The Misdemeanors of Nancy," which proved very popular.

FUNK & WAGNALLS publish to-day the eighth volume of their great Jewish encyclopædia, and a new and revised edition of "The Encyclopædia of Missions," giving the present status of missions throughout the world. In November they will issue "The Religion of the New Testament," translated from the German of Prof. Bernard Weiss, of the University of Berlin, by Prof. George H. Schodde; "The Buccaneers," by Henry M. Hyde, a novel dealing with modern business methods and the power of corporations; and the "Cambridge-Pickering Shakespeare" in twenty-one volumes, which promises to be a satisfactory library set.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY publish this week F. Marion Crawford's new novel, "Whosoever Shall Offend;" the new industrial novel by Miss Gwendolen Overton, "Captains of the World," which details a contest between capitalists and union labor men, and a great strike; "Comedies and Legends for Marionettes," by Miss Georgiana Goddard King; "Italy," by Professor W. Deecke; "The Crusaders," by Dr. Alfred J. Church; and "Paris and Its Story," by Thomas Okey. They will publish on the 15th inst. "The Sin of David," the new play by Stephen Phillips that was announced two months ago under the title of "Miriam, or, the Sin of David."

A. C. MCCLURG & Co. have just issued "My Lady of the North," by Randall Parish, a story of the Civil War in the United States; "Florence in the Poetry of the Brownings," edited by Anna Benneson McMahon, a scholarly selection of the poems of the Brownings relating the history, scenery and art of Florence, the city in which they so long made their home; the first four volumes of a biographical series to be called Life Stories for Young People, which are devoted to "Beethoven," "Mozart," "William Tell;" also, "Maid of Orleans;" also, the "Little Giant," a volume of fairy stories found among the manuscripts of the late Thomas Dunn English.

MISS M. E. CARTER'S new book, which is coming from the press of A. S. Barnes & Co., is entitled "House and Home, a Practical Book on Home Management." This is a new volume in The Woman's Home Library, edited by Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster, who says in her introduction: "Miss Carter understands the ordinary routine of the ordinary home where comfort is sought. To the young housekeeper her suggestions will be pertinent and timely. The experienced matron will read these pages with approval, because the writer's standpoint is thoroughly up to date, a necessity not to be overlooked in a manual of housekeeping and home-making in our advanced days."

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just ready the first volume of the late W. Davenport Adams's "Dictionary of the Drama," to be complete in two volumes. The work embraces notes on the plays, players, playwrights and playhouses of the United States and England, and the facts have been condensed in each case so as to make the book especially valuable as a work of ready reference. They have also just brought out "Romance of Modern Steam Locomotion," a handsomely illustrated volume, by Archibald Williams, whose other books in the Scientific Romance Series have been so successful; "Petronella," a new story for girls by L. T. Meade; also, a story for boys, entitled "School Champion," by Raymond Jacobson, with a number of illustrations.

E. P. DUTTON & CO. have just issued a new color book entitled "Childhood," the joint work of Katharine Pyle and Sarah S. Stilwell. In the verses Miss Pyle treats matters of everyday interest from the child's point of view, and Miss Stilwell has done in her most charming manner a full-page illustration in two colors to accompany each page of text. They are also bringing out Willard Bonte's juvenile "The Mother Goose Puzzle Book, to which are added The Seven Voyages of Sindbad, the Sailor, and other puzzle pictures." There is a series of drawings based on well-known Mother Goose Nursery Rhymes. Opposite each illustration there is a little sketch telling the youthful reader about the people and animals he may find concealed in the outlines of the picture.

DANA ESTES & COMPANY are preparing several books of importance, chiefly of holiday character. The "Life of Shakespeare," by William J. Rolfe, one of the foremost living authorities on his subject, will be fully indexed and well illustrated, and will be a notable addition to Shakespeareana, as will also the "Glossary to Shakespeare," by the noted English critic, Alexander Dyce, which in this edition is adapted to the Cambridge text. A contribution to the ever-growing literature of Japan is by G. Waldo Browne, entitled "Japan, the Place and the People," which will have an introduction by the Japanese Minister to the United States and upwards of 300 fine illustrations. The three standard novels of William Ware—"Aurelian," "Zenobia" and "Julian"—are to be brought out in a neat octavo set, which, boxed, will make a desirable gift. Several standard sets and many juveniles are also almost ready for the trade.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish this fall in the Music-Story Series "The Story of Chamber Music," by N. Kilburn, conductor of the Middlesbrough, Sunderland and Bishop Auckland Musical Societies. It is the first book in the English language devoted entirely to the history and criticism of this important form of musical art. It gives detailed accounts and descriptions of compositions in the form of duets, trios, quartets, and other larger combinations for stringed instruments. They will publish in The Makers of British Art series a work on Sir Henry Raeburn, by Edward Pinnington, who estimates the artist simply as he appears in his works, and considers his various styles as the successive phases of personal evolution. The new issue of the Langham Series of Art Monographs will be entitled "Venice as an Art City." The author is Albert Zacher. It includes descriptive sketches of the Academy of Venice, the Ducal Palace, Venetian Monuments, Venetian Churches, Venetian Palaces, etc. The illustrations reproduce some of the most famous localities and pictures of the city.

DODD, MEAD & CO. have just ready a new story of Onoto Watanna, the author of "A Japanese Nightingale," etc., which is entitled "The Love of Azalea," and is illustrated by a Japanese artist; "Beatrice of Venice," a new story by Max Pemberton; "A Box of Matches," by Hamblen Sears, the author of "None But the Brave," which has had a large sale; "The Correspondence of William Cowper," edited by Thomas Wright, which is the first complete edition of Cowper's letters ever published; a popular reprint of "The League of the Iroquois," by Lewis H. Morgan, revised by Herbert M. Lloyd, the first issue of which was published in an edition de luxe and has been out of print for some time; "Japan, by the Japanese," a work written by eminent Japanese authorities on various phases of Japanese life, compiled and edited by Alfred Stead; the third and concluding volume of George Saintsbury's "History of Criticism;" a handsomely illustrated edition of Hamilton W. Mabie's most popular work, "Nature and Culture," with twenty-four full-page reproductions of nature studies; also, two juveniles—"Fatty at Home," by Carolyn Wells, and "Wilby's Dan," by William Wallace Cook.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY will issue this fall a new volume of F. B. Meyer's, called "The Directory of the Devout Life," which will deal with the Sermon on the Mount; and the first volume of London City Temple talks to young men, collected under the title "The Choice of the Highest." These talks, by Reginald J. Campbell, the young men's preacher, are held every Thursday noon, and the vast edifice is filled by between two and three thousand business men. Dr. Arthur J. Brown, author of "The New Era in the Philippines," has prepared an equally important book in "New Forces in Old China," of which several chapters have already been published in The Century, Review of Reviews, and other magazines. The author looks upon China as a force to be reckoned with in the world's life. This book is illustrated from photographs taken by himself. It is promised shortly. This house also will publish Robert E. Speer's "Missionary Aspects of Great Movements," dealing with the Tai-Ping Rebellion in China, the Sepoy Rebellion in India, the Emancipation of Latin-America, etc.; and "Education in Religion and Morals," by George Albert Coe, of which the germ idea is that secular education and religious education are complementary and both essential to a complete education.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY will publish on Wednesday, October 19, several new books by well-known authors. Mrs. Adeline D. T. Whitney will give in "Biddy's Episodes," a story of independent American girlhood; Bliss Perry, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, has gathered under the title of "The Amateur Spirit," a volume of essays pleading for the union in the various activities of life of professional skill with the enthusiasm of the amateur; Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis also has a volume of essays called "Bits of Gossip," in which she gives interesting notes of Oliver Wendell Holmes, Hawthorne, Emerson, the Alcotts, Blaine, Poe, Whitman, Holland, Frémont, Greeley, Wendell Phillips, and many other famous Americans whom she has known personally; Clara Erskine Clement has prepared "Women of the Fine Arts," another of the biographical and critical handbooks for which she has earned herself an enviable reputation; and Mrs. Thomas Wentworth Higginson has gathered from the magazines a volume of her delicately personal verse and calls it "The Playmate Hours." For young people, George Hodges, Dean of the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge, has retold the gospel narrative for children under the title "When the King Came;" and Mary Austin has prepared a book of stories of the California desert, which is called "The Basket Woman." A contribution to Elizabethan history is "The Queen's Progress," by Felix E. Schelling, a collection of short essays dealing with the great age that produced Spenser, Bacon and Shakespeare, fully illustrated from contemporary portraits, cuts and other memorials of the time, gotten up with typography and binding similarly appropriate.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Making Money

"A Cynic's Meditations" is a money maker for the trade. It is no trick for a bookseller to sell as many as a dozen copies to a customer. We have just started to advertise this clever collection of epigrams and have gone to press with the fifth edition within three weeks of publication. Here is an idea for your window. It will attract prompt attention and sell a big quantity of books for you.

The one certain thing about woman is her uncertainty.

From "A Cynic's Meditations"
A book of cleverness. 75 cents

A friend in need is a friend—we usually shun.

From "A Cynic's Meditations"

NEW YORK

"If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon or make a better mouse-trap, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—Emerson.

IN other words, superiority, like truth, is mighty, and will prevail. We are publishing the best Webster's Dictionary that has ever been issued and true to the prophetic lines of Emerson, the world is making a beaten path to our door. We were never satisfied when we turned out the reprint Webster. It was not up to our standard of desire in the important elements of accuracy and quality. But when we produced the "best," the potency of the Emersonian philosophy burst upon us with full force.

If you were to drop around to our office at 181 Monroe Street, Chicago, you'd find no "beaten path"—but if you looked in our back order drawer you'd soon see what we mean by the phrase—for it's full of orders for to be shipped as soon as we can get the books from the next edition which will be ready on October 17th or 18th.

THE NEW 1904 WEBSTER

Not a reprint or a photographic reproduction, but an entirely new Webster's Dictionary that defines more words than any previous Webster. Webster's "International," which it supersedes, is now 14 years old, and, as a consequence, quite out of date.

A single page in this book (1089) defines 36 words not found in Webster's International Dictionary; another page (1177) defines 23 such words. You need the latest and best. This is it. RADIUM, the various RAYS, TRUSTS, etc., and all other modern words, also old words with modern meanings, are properly defined in their alphabetic order.

NEW FROM A TO Z

THOUSANDS OF NEW WORDS

RE-EDITED THROUGHOUT

PRINTED FROM NEW PLATES

The Only New Complete WEBSTER'S Dictionary Issued in 14 YEARS

THIS IS THE ONLY "WEBSTER" in which common sense and discrimination have been shown by the editors in the use of capitals. In the Imperial all proper names begin with capitals and other words with small letters. It is strange that so important a feature should have been overlooked in other Webster's—but it was. This is but one of hundreds of illustrations of the thoroughness with which Webster's Imperial has been prepared.

Does the trade appreciate the New Dictionary? Well, they bought the entire first edition in 25 days from the date of publication! Have you had your supply? If not order now of

Books That Sell in Spite of a Dull Season

"Bad times: nothing selling," seems to be the cry from the booksellers.

However, here are eight books published in the last two months, every one of which has been immediately successful:

- (1) OLD GORGON GRAHAM 58th Thousand

By GEORGE HORACE LORIMER. The Chicago Record-Herald says: "The author's fund of humor, sound sense, and epigram seems inexhaustible." (Illustrated, $1.50.)

- (2) THE SEEKER 15th Thousand in press

By HARRY LEON WILSON. "It is frank and courageous, with none of the hypocrisy that curses most English fiction."—The Bookman. (Illustrated, $1.50.)

- (3) TRAFFICS AND DISCOVERIES 15th Thousand in preparation

By RUDYARD KIPLING. "There is the same dynamic strength in word and phrase, the same flawless technique, the same bold originality of theme, that make him to-day, more than ever, the inevitable master of the short story."—N. Y. Globe. ($1.50.)

- (4) RECOLLECTIONS AND LETTERS OF LEE 2d Printing
immediately

By his son, Captain ROBERT E. LEE. "An intimate revelation of a noble personality."—New York Herald. (Illustrated, net, $2.50. Postage, 25 cents.)

- (5) THE EAGLE'S SHADOW 6th Thousand

By JAMES BRANCH CABELL. The Cincinnati Times-Star says: "Once in a long while a real writer writes a real story. . . . That is the case with Mr. Cabell's altogether delightful tale." (Illustrated, $1.50.)

- (6) THE INTERLOPER 2d Printing

By VIOLET JACOB. "A novel that suggests in no slight degree the work of the masters."—New York Times Saturday Review. ($1.50.)

- (7) A BELLE OF THE FIFTIES 2d Printing
immediately

Memoirs of Mrs. Clay of Alabama, put into narrative form by ADA STERLING. "One of the most interesting books of the year. . . . a charming picture."—Washington Post. (Illustrated, net, $2.75. Postage, 28 cents.)

- (8) THE BOOK OF GAMES 2d Printing

By MRS. BURTON KINGSLAND. "It reads just like a story and it has a fascination quite apart from the mere relation of rules for making the time pass away."—Philadelphia Inquirer. (Net, $1.50. Postage, 15 cents.)

133-137 E. 16TH ST., NEW YORK

P. S.—Last week we issued an intensely interesting volume: "Letters from the Holy Land," by Ernest Renan, to his friend, M. Berthelot (translated by Lorenzo O'Rourke). It contains the vivid impressions made on that great Frenchman's mind while gathering the material for his classic "Life of Jesus Christ." (Frontispiece, net, $2.00. Postage 20 cents).

Can you solve the Mystery?

Ready October 22d.

THE ALBERT GATE MYSTERY

BEING THE FURTHER ADVENTURES OF
REGINALD BRETT, BARRISTER DETECTIVE

By LOUIS TRACY

Author of "THE STOWMARKET MYSTERY," "THE WINGS OF THE MORNING," etc., etc.

Louis Tracy has given us a detective story so mysterious, so absorbing, and so ingenious, that our old friend, Sherlock Holmes, must bestir himself in good earnest if he is to keep his place. There is of course murder in the story, with sensation galore, but so mysterious and unheard of as to leave the element of mystery-solvers in a quandary.

NOW READY

Publishers' Trade List Annual 1904

This volume, as heretofore, includes the new catalogues and lists of the year—three hundred and twenty-six in all—and supersedes the previous issue. The price of this volume of over 5000 pages is $2, (cloth bound, with Denison thumb index), and there is no guide to books which furnishes so much information at so low a cost.

NOW READY

THE COMBINED INDEX, 1903-1904

The new Index, combining in one alphabet supplementary material for 1903 and 1904, will make a volume of nearly 500 pages, and the price, instead of $2.50 as originally announced, will therefore be $3, except to subscribers whose remittances at $2.50 are received before publication day of the Index, September 15th. This alphabet is supplementary to the original Index of 1902, and the Combined Index (covering the original 1902 Index and the Supplementary 1903-4 Index) can be had at $7—or previous to September 15th, at $6.
